Cuban patriots organize in Belle Glade

140 men
at mill

SOUTH BAY—140 of the Cuba refugees being funneled through Key West into Miami wound up Monday night in the Gulf & Western Cane Sugar Mill's sugar cane cutter dormitories.

Gary Martin, a Gulf & Western official in the corporation's West Palm Beach office, said Tuesday the corporation had been approached by the International Rescue Mission of Miami and Miami Mayor Maurice Ferré if Gulf & Western could house some of the refugees temporarily.

Martin said the corporation agreed to house and feed 140 young males, estimated to be between the ages of 18 and 35, in the dormitory. The 140 men were brought to the sugar mill about 11:30 p.m. Monday on buses chartered by the corporation.

All the men were reportedly among those who took refuge in the Peruvian Embassy two weeks ago and Martin said they are expected to stay in the dormitories for one or two weeks, until officials of the Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) could process them.

Martin said a rumor to the effect that 700 Cubans would eventually be housed in the dormitories was incorrect, that 140 will be the total the company will care for.

During a meeting of local Cubans Sunday afternoon, Junta Patriótica Cubana President Antonio Varona told the Belle Glade latins that negotiations were under way with local sugar mills to house the refugees.

Junta president visits

BELLE GLADE — A "super group" of Cuban patriots, who say they represent 97 of the organizations formed by Cuban refugees around the world and make up a government in exile met with the government's president here Sunday.

The idea behind the Junta Patriótica Cubana, according to Gilberto Alvarez, who said he has been chosen as a liaison with the Anglo community in the Glades, is to unite the Cubans, who have been splintered in the past, both by Fidel Castro and disagreements between themselves.

Dr. Antonio Varona met with the local group, referred to as a regional association, after returning from Washington D.C. where he and other exile leaders spoke with government spokesmen Sunday about a host of new Cuban refugees out of Cuba.

Although that host of dominated the talk during and before the meeting, Dr. Varona and others made it clear that Junta wasn't formed to deal with that particular problem but it happened to be the first problem to crop up after the group formed.

Varona said he had told the Under Secretary of State in Washington, one of the officials he met with, that the Junta is opposed to the host of that the exiles would rather see President Carter call Castro's bluff and send a couple of aircraft carriers into Havana Harbor to take out all the Cubans who want to leave.

The mistake, Castro made, which triggered the current situation and the host of that, according to Varona, was in leaving that by removing Cuban guards from the Peruvian embassy, some 200 to 300 Cubans would flood into the embassy to ask for asylum, creating chaos and trouble for the Peruvians.

"He never dreamed 10,800 Cubans would ask for asylum," Varona said, "and what the world doesn't know is that there were many more outside the embassy who would have been inside if there had been room."

Varona said Castro knew he couldn't handle the bad image such an exodus would create among third world nations, which had been led to believe Cuba had become a "Socialist Paradise."

He noted that 85 per cent of the refugees who filled the Peruvian embassy were young people who had been born and raised under the Castro regime. He also charged that Castro's government had turned Cuba from one of the most productive farming countries in the western hemisphere into a "land of forests."

Varona, and local Cuban leaders, said the host of was playing into Castro's hands because it was spreading the exiles' resources too thin and was scattering the refugees.

Varona said the crowd of some 200 Cubans gathered at the St. Philip Benizi Church hall that the Junta is already receiving aid from Cuban communities throughout the country for the host of $100,000 from Chicago alone.

He said the cities of Miami and Hialeah over the weekend recognized the Junta as the government of Cuba and said one of the lines that made it in the talks in Washington was that the exiles think the time has come for the American government to at least recognize them when decisions are made concerning Cuba.

The United States, he said, isn't giving willing cooperation to the effort to get Cubans out of Cuba but added the aim of the exiles shouldn't be to allow the freedom for Cubans to come here but for Cubans here to return home.

This, he said, is the aim of the Junta, nothing less than the liberation of Cuba from Castro's regime and he acknowledged the exiles would need the help of the U.S. government, either directly or indirectly. He also expressed concern that should an uprising take place in Cuba in the near future, a massacre of Cubans by Russian troops doesn't take place.

The Junta, Varona said, offers the first time in 20 years, since Castro came to power, for all the splinter Cuban groups to get together and act as a cohesive group.

Among the other speakers during the rally were Juan Alvarez, president of the regional association, and Jesus Garcia, vice secretary.

Garcia acknowledged the presence of Belle Glade Mayor Ralph Kirk and City Commissioners Claude Tindall and Dorothy Walker. He apologized because a working luncheon for the executive committee of the local association, and the general meeting started late, saying the reason was that things had been thrown into confusion because of the host of.

Garcia said earlier he was one of about 100 Cubans from the Glades who went to Key West to help out. He said the harbor there was a scene of frantic activity even early in the pre-dawn hours.

"There was one mother and her girl who were given a package of four cookies," he said, "and the little girl told her mother to, 'let's hurry and eat them.' She thought someone was going to come along and take them away."

"There was one woman," he said, "whose two children were taken away from her by guards before she left Cuba. A guard told her the children were the property of the state, not her. By the time she reached Key West, she was almost crazy."

Garcia and others spoke of people who had been beaten by guards on their way out of Cuba. One black Cuban had been told that if he came to the United States, he would be the object of racism and police would set their dogs on him. Before he left, a Cuban guard turned his dog over him and he bitten severely.

"People in this country," Garcia said, "don't know how close they are to losing their own freedom. Freedom is the most important thing you have. Without it, you don't have religion. You don't have anything."

"Americans," he went on, "have gotten used to having everything and they don't want to sacrifice anything. It's time for them to realize they've had everything given to them by the government and they're going to have to stop taking from the government and giving

Demands given

When Dr. Antonio Varona and other members of the Junta Patriótica Cubana were in Washington, D.C. Sunday, Dr. Varona said they were supposed to meet with Vice President Mondale and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, neither of whom were present. They said they met with an Under Secretary of State, two presidential advisors, a representative of the Department of Justice, Immigration and the administrator of Latin Affairs, a Mr. Torres.

Dr. Varona said the group of exiles presented the following list of demands to the government leaders. I. Regarding the present crisis and in the best interest of human rights and the international rights of refugees seeking asylum from repression, the United States government should:

a. Demand from the Cuban government the freedom of all political prisoners.

b. Provide the adequate means of transportation for all Cubans wishing to leave the island. We believe a swift solution to the problem is essential. Therefore, one massive transfer rather than small weekly increments will avoid extending the same to an indefinite period of time.

c. Afford the new Cuban refugees the same legal status as other Cuban refugees, rather than considering them as illegal.

II. The actual crisis is not an isolated incident, but a symptom of a much more serious problem which requires the re-examination of U.S. policy towards Cuba, for which we recommend:

a. Complying with the U.S. Congress Joint Resolution of October 1962 which recognizes the right of the Cuban people to struggle for the independence of their country. They can be given in many different ways, such as allowing a Radio station to transmit into Cuba.

b. Investigating and sanctioning Castro's agents in the United States, or force them to register as agents of a foreign nation.

c. Develop a plan in case of an uprising in Cuba, at that Soviet troops are not allowed to massacre the Cuban people.

PBJC auditorium on the way

BELLE GLADE — The City Commission ensured Monday that a contract will be signed today or Thursday for the construction of the Palm Beach Junior College - Glades Cultural and Educational Center, when the city donated $32,000 toward the construction.

The commissioners heard a presentation by PBJC Trustee Dolly Hand and Glades Campus Provost Cecil Conboy about the shortage left in local matching funds after the county had donated $300,000 last week and the commission approved a motion by Dorothy Walker to donate the entire amount still needed.

Immediately following the motion, the commission approved a resolution for PBJC President Ed Elsey to take to the county Tuesday, along with a resolution from the county commission, which was supposed to be what the state needed to approve funds for the auditorium.

Included in the approval motion for the construction, Commissioner Tom Altman moved that the money be taken from the commission's construction reserve fund. The resolution stipulated the donations could be made in two increments over two fiscal years.

Mrs. Hand explained that the auditorium has been in the planning stage for some time and that the college architect had estimated a total construction cost of $300,000, but the college had managed to raise some $1 million, including $300,000 local matching funds.

The auditorium was to be built under a program which would provide two-for-one matching funds from the state, with the one coming from non-educational donations.

The original $300,000 in local funds came in the form of a $200,000 from the county commission and another $100,000 that had grown by means of interest and time from a $78,000 donation made by the Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative of Florida, Inc. when George Wedgeworth first negotiated to get the land to build the Glades campus.

Dr. Elsey explained to the county commission and Mrs. Hand explained to the city commission that the college was working under a deadline of May 1, the date to which the bid deadline had been extended by Wallace Lutz, whose low bid of $1.6 million kicked off the flurry of activity.

"May 1 is upon us," Mrs. Hand told the city commissioners Monday night. "The college has been an asset for Belle Glade and the auditorium contingency funds. Commissioner Dennis Koehler said at the time he personally would like to see the City of Belle Glade make a donation as well, first mentioning $20,000 to $25,000 and finally saying even a token $5,000 would do.

PAHOKEE—Something will be missing from the city election this year. There'll be no crowds gathered on the fire station lawn. No last-minute tub thumping and electioneering. And no campaign pamphlets being handed to voters as they enter the polling place.

The May 6 city election will be following the state election code which stipulates that soliciting votes or opinions with 100 yards of a polling place is a first degree misdemeanor.

"The law has always been in effect, we've just never enforced it," explained City Clerk Betty McCoy. "It's been traditional for people to gather on the lawn, picnic and get together. But we can't allow it this year."

The practice has been allowed as long as no candidate objected, but when candidates were polled this year, there was an objection, said Mrs. McCoy.

A total of 1,599 voters have registered for Tuesday's election which will name a new mayor from among four contenders and select one city commissioner from among three candidates.

Seeking the mayor's seat, being vacated after 20 years by Duncan Padgett, are Commissioners Robert Wolty and Norma Norman; Maud Maxwell, chairman of the Pahokee Housing Authority; and Wynona Cummings, a former county member.

Although there are three vacancies on the council, only one will be voted on. Commissioner George Rashley, seeking re-election as a Group 2 candidate, and Hugo Rainieri, the only Group 1 candidate, are both unopposed. Their names have consequently not been placed on the ballot.

Voting will determine which of the three city council candidates in Group III wins the remaining seat. Candidates are William Collins Duke, Jon C. Mock, and Gary C. Sanders, Jr.

Both Sanders and Duke have been defeated in past elections for council seats. Mock is a first-time contender.

Because of the mayoral election, some two-thirds of the city's voters are expected to turn out, Mrs. McCoy reports. Polls will be open from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m.

At 10:30 a.m. Monday a test run of the vote tabulating machine will be made using a sample deck provided by the Palm Beach County supervisor of elections office. A back-up tallymaster has also been supplied in case of emergency, Mrs. McCoy said.

PAHOKEE—Something will be missing from the city election this year. There'll be no crowds gathered on the fire station lawn. No last-minute tub thumping and electioneering. And no campaign pamphlets being handed to voters as they enter the polling place.

The May 6 city election will be following the state election code which stipulates that soliciting votes or opinions with 100 yards of a polling place is a first-degree misdemeanor.

"The law has always been in effect, we've just never enforced it," explained City Clerk Betty McCoy. "It's been traditional for people to gather on the lawn, picnic and get together. But we can't allow it this year."

The practice has been allowed as long as no candidate objected, but when candidates were polled this year, there was an objection, said Mrs. McCoy.

Pahokee City Council has proposed that a leash law be drawn up to provide control of free-running dogs in the city. This week Backtalk asked Pahokee residents, "Do you favor or oppose such a law?"

Louise Angel — I'm in favor. I love animals but I don't think they should be running around.

Bertha Boyce — Yes Ma'am! I'm in favor of keeping dogs out of my yard. I've got no fence. I do a lot of cleaning up and I don't like it.

NO PHOTO

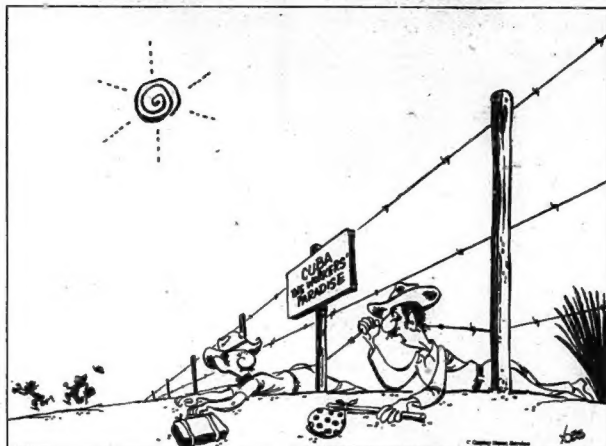

Paul Watson — I'm in favor of a leash law, Sure!

Ulysses Warren — I'm in favor of a leash law. It's better if an animal is on a leash. That way you can handle it better.

Dick Karby — I think basically I'm not in favor. We're really a rural community and I don't think we're then plagued with domesticated animals. Dogs should be rounded up that are not properly tagged, but I think the responsibility should be placed on the owner.

Ignoring a good law

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following editorial is reprinted with the permission of the Sheriff's Star, the magazine of the Florida Sheriff Association. It was written as the president's message by Association President Frank Cline in the March-April edition.

I saw some statistics the other day that made me mad as hell. These figures revealed that only about 30 per cent of the gun-toting criminals sent to prison in Florida during the past four years have been sentenced under a law designed to crack down on crimes involving guns and other deadly weapons.

This law requires judges to give armed criminals who commit certain serious crimes at least three years in prison with no hope of parole or probation during that mandatory time.

It is a tough law and a good law. It was passed in 1976 with strong support from the Florida Sheriff Association. We called it the "Three-years-to-life" (TYTL) law, and we publicized it statewide through billboards and the media to make certain it would deter armed hoodlums.

Our efforts paid off dramatically for a little while. In 1976, the year after the TYTL law was passed, armed robberies dropped 28.2 per cent, and all violent crimes dropped 5.5 per cent; but the trend soon reversed and, since 1977, robberies and violent crimes have been increasing at an accelerating rate. In the first nine months of 1979, armed robberies increased 19.9 per cent; murder with handguns increased 20.3 per cent and shotgun murders increased 39.9 per cent.

The TYTL law worked for one year and then stopped working and I know why: because certain judges and prosecutors began ignoring it or bypassing it.

Judges don't like it because it takes away some of their discretion in serious cases. Prosecutors are prone to use it as a handy plea bargaining tool.

Sheriffs have known this was going on but they didn't know how bad it was until the Department of Corrections figures showed the TYTL law was being used only about 30 per cent of the time.

This tells me that about 70 per cent of the criminals using guns in crime are being improperly charged and sentenced. Many of them will be eligible for parole within six months to a year when they should be serving three years or more.

Some judges are apparently deciding to ignore the TYTL law and are sentencing criminals without citing that law. Prosecutors are apparently bypassing the TYTL law by reducing serious charges involving guns to lesser charges during plea bargaining sessions.

The three-year mandatory sentence applies only when guns are used in certain specific crimes such as murder of all degrees, rape, robbery, burglary, arson, aggravated assault, aggravated battery, kidnapping, escape, breaking and entering and aircraft piracy. When charges are reduced to lesser crimes, the fact that a gun was used does not automatically trigger a mandatory sentence and the gunman is likely to get off light.

If the TYTL law were being properly used, I suspect more armed robbers would be going to prison. In 1978, 5,471 suspects were arrested for all categories of robbery, but only 4,000 went to prison. Thus, 1,471 went free. Some were obviously acquitted but I wonder how many benefitted from plea bargaining, probation and other maneuvers.

When the TYTL law was passed, prison officials braced for a flood of prisoners but a Department of Corrections official was recently quoted as saying it actually has had no noticeable effect on the prison population and, "no significant impact on our planning for the future."

In the 1973-74 fiscal year, just under 10 per cent of Florida's new prisoners were armed robbers. Two years later, immediately after the TYTL law was passed, the percentage jumped to 18, but it dropped to 10 per cent the following year and to 9.6 per cent the year after that.

Meanwhile, Florida's crime rate has increased from 680 violent crimes for every 100,000 residents in 1976, to 784

The "revolving door system" of short prison terms for armed and dangerous criminals is still operating and the law that was passed to slow it down is not being used.

The TYTL law is an excellent law but it has not been given a fair shake. Certain judges and prosecutors are not giving it a chance to do what it was intended to do. They are not carrying out the intent of the legislature; they are not living up to their oaths of office to uphold the laws of Florida and the more I think about it, the madder I get.

The patriot from Oak Creek

BY H. G. Duncan

The attempted rescue of our citizens held hostage in Tehran was a brave tragedy. Every armchair strategist has had his say, so I can not attempt to analyze what happened, what went wrong. I can only applaud those brave and dedicated men of Force-Delta, also known as "Charlie's Angels," and mourn the eight who did not walk away.

These men, all ninety of them, are patriots. Their dedication is an inspiration. I wish to comment, however, on another "patriot," of the Jane Fonda school.

Mrs. Barbara Timm, of Oak Creek, Wisconsin, the mother of Marine Sergeant Kevin Hermening who is being held hostage by the Iranian fanatics, expressed her patriotism and her love for this country in a rather strange way.

I think what she showed, more than character, was a bit of a warped sense of reality. She is concerned for the safety of her son. She has loved him all his twenty years. She loved him so much she even gave him two fathers. Her concern led her to defy Presidential and State Department bans on travel of private citizens to Iran. That alone places her in the criminal bracket.

We recall the television interview with the hostages (some of them) held by the "students" as a propaganda technique. Young Sergeant Hermening stated for the world to see his deploring of the American poisoning of Iranian soil so that no crops could be grown after the downfall of the Shah. His young face and eyes added depth to his statement. He truly believed the drive he espoused.

I was angry when I watched this youngster condemn his own country. How could he? He is a Marine Sergeant given a special assignment as an Embassy guard. I think I understand, now, how he could sell his country down the drain.

He had a apt teacher. After the rescue attempt failed, Mrs. Timm, still in Tehran, at beside the Iranian President and apologized, on national television, for the actions of the United States.

To me, that constituted treason.

She has shamed herself, her son, and her name... names. She is safe, however, Carter will forgive her. Perhaps, if and when Kevin returns to this country, Jimmy may give him a high position in government sitting alongside the articulate draft evader/deserter who returned from Canada to the open arms of

CRACKER CRUMBS

BY DEAN JONES

Tis the season of the creepy crawlers... or at least that's according to former fearless, Biff Lampton.

Biff made his escape from the dread toils of journalism here at the Herald Observer and his obvious enjoyment of his new position (if ain't no job, sports fans) as a commissioned flack for the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission can only be described as obscene.

He's earning his daily bread, if "earning" can be stretched to cover his job, by hunting, fishing (he's been competing in the Thaleo Tumpka tournament this week) and whipping out the odd press release.

Ne-ah. "Earning" doesn't cut it, not when he's getting paid to do what he'd rather do than anything else in the world. What he's doing is ripping off the state. He should be paying the taxpayers while he sweats out a living somewhere else.

Just to give an idea of how he puts bones on the table these days he sent out a news release last week telling us, as if we didn't know, that this is the time of year, "South Florida residents can expect to have catfish underfoot, toads croaking and frogs creating a crescendo of sound rivaled only by a pop rock band in full electronics."

Then he goes on to explain there's not a whole lot the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission can do about it.

Now, I wouldn't think of slandering the rest of the officers serving diligently with the commission by repeating their efforts in behalf of the taxpayer with L. Lampton.

But on the other hand, if former fearless leader were an indication, of course there would be something the commission could do about the creepy crawlers. He could they when they're too busy fishing and whipping out news releases about why they can't do anything.

The going on with Biff's release, he adds insult to injury by quoting Commission biologist Frank Morello about callers who complain about the frogs croaking all night and asking him to send someone out to round them up because they're keeping folks awake.

Come on, now, Biff. Those complainers couldn't be Floridians... not even "Floridians" who moved from New Jersey a year ago. Those people gotta be Yankees because there ain't nobody with any sense who'd ask anybody to round up frogs, not with the price of frog legs running better than $4 a pound wholesale. Besides, anybody who can doze off to a serenade of bull-frog music shouldn't be living anywhere around where they'd get the benefit of the chorus anyway. They oughta still be living on the lower east side of Brooklyn.

And "they ear plugs" certainly wouldn't be the answer. A better solution would be to "buy a b ticket."

You gonna have to learn, Biff. You can't be snide with the multitude 'fou gotta offer 'em serious solutions to their problems. And the only solution to something like this, when a person's got so little class frogs and their babble bother him, he's hopeless and oughta be in close range of Bellvue anyway.

By the bys, Biff, I was real glad to notice your position includes a secretary. I've got to assume you have a secretary because I know you can't improve your spelling that fast.

I managed to spend another evening Friday with the Glades Central track teams and, to someone who's really not all that interested in track events, it was one heckuva meet.

The Raiders didn't win the boys and girls meets, or rather, they didn't just win them. They totally dominated and demoralized what could loosely be described as the competition.

Just to give an idea of how total the domination was, the boys placed in all but one of the 15 events. They came in second place in the mile medley, the after dropping the baton on the first 220 split... and they darned near won that one.

Raider Coach Willie McDonald promised a surprise before the running events started, but the mile medley wasn't it. The surprise was Jessie Hester's fine running of a 100 yard dash in competition. He won it with a time of 9.6 seconds.

Scoutarama is Saturday

BELLE GLADE—More than 250 scouts are expected to display their talents and skills Saturday at the 1980 Scout-O-Rama to be held at Palm Beach Junior College.

Glades campus from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

"It's a big day for the local scouts because it gives them an opportunity to show their family, friends and community the many benefits of the scouting program," said Dr. M. J. Luce, general chairman. "They prepare all year for this event."

"This year's theme for the Scout-O-Rama," Luce said, "is 'Scouting... The Better Life'. It has an added meaning for the scouts because it celebrates the 70th Anniversary of Cub Scouting."

Over the years, many well known figures in the past have been a part of Scouting story. Scouting went to the White House with Gerald Ford... It's been to the movies with Jimmy Stewart... It's presence has been felt on the baseball field with Hank Aaron and every morning on television with David Hartman. Scouting has even been to the moon.

This year's Scout-O-Rama tickets are only $1 and are available from the local scouts throughout the Glades District, which stretches from Canal Point to Clewiston.

Rotarians 'play judge'

PAHOKEE—Sentencing is the most important thing a judge does," Palm Beach County Judge Don Adams told Rotarians Thursday. "But no one is trained in sentencing," he pointed out, despite a judge's years of legal education and experience.

After eliciting a majority opinion from among his listeners that "the general public feels sentences given by judges in our area are quite a bit too lenient," Judge Adams gave Rotarians a chance to "play judge" during the last week's luncheon meeting at the Elks club.

He first read a newspaper account of a two-auto accident in which four people in one car were killed and the driver of the other vehicle was charged with manslaughter and driving while intoxicated. Included in the story were eyewitness accounts given of the event.

Post Office offers free address kits

If you're one of the estimated 36 million persons who plan to move their residences this year, you should begin notifying everyone who regularly sends you mail at least one full month before you move.

That's the advice from Belle Glade Postmaster Don Silver who suggests you file Change-of-address forms with your post office and send them to correspondents and publishers.

The Postal Service offers free Change-of-Address kits to make it easier to notify everyone. Available in post offices and from letter carriers, the kits include convenient postcards to alert the postmaster and for mailing to department stores, friends and relatives, utility companies, banks, newspapers and magazine publishers and others who do business with the family planning to move.

"Too often people who are moving wait until the last minute to notify their correspondents," said Postmaster Silver. "The result is they add up to several days to their First-Class Mail delivery because it must be forwarded to the new address," he added. Those who fail to give publishers at least a month advance notice must either pay additional postage for forwarding, if desired, or wait several weeks before the publisher changes the address.

This means customers may miss one or more issues of their favorite magazine. "Customers should also remember to include their account number when notifying stores and banks and to send their old address labels to publishers," Postmaster Silver advised. "And for all correspondence, remember to include their new ZIP Code."

The audience had been given checklists of "sentencing alternatives" ranging from commitment in the state prison to paying only a fine. They were asked to indicate their choice of a sentence after hearing the newspaper account.

something themselves. In Cuba, you aren't given a choice about whether you want to do something. The government tells you and you do it."

Varona commented at one point in his speech that people in the United States don't believe they'll ever have Communism here, "but I can remember when I was living in Cuba and I was saying the same thing." Garcia said officers in the local association, besides himself and President Alvarez, include Vice President Emilio Echevarre, Secretary Fernando Llorens, Treasurer Hector Corvo and Vice Treasurer Servello Pedraza.

his forgiving President.

I compare the neurotic ravings of Mrs. Timm to the quiet statement of another mother of a Marine held hostage in Tehran.

Mr. and Mrs. Gallegos, parents of their Corporal son, stated that since the attempted rescue they have felt warmth and peace in knowing that the government is at least trying to gain the freedom of all the hostages, even at the risk of the lives of the rescuers.

My hat is off to the Gallegos family.

Corporal Gallegos contrasts vividly with his superior non-commissioned officer, Sergeant Harmering. Gallegos has been seen a few times on television, and has never once said anything which would detract from his demonstrated patriotism and his love for his country.

Mrs. Timm's actions can be understood by those possessing occult ability to understand. She was driven to her actions and words out of love for her son. I don't think so. I think she was motivated to do what she did primarily out of her sense of the dramatic, her lack of patriotism (which she has so artfully instilled in her son), and by some distorted sense of feeling she and Jane Fonda have all the answers.

I salute Mr. and Mrs. Gallegos! I suggest to Mrs. Timm she take up residence in the country to which she apologized.

Stone briefs farmers on Iranian rescue attempt

BELLE GLADE — U.S. Senator Richard Stone met about 40 Glades area agriculturists for luncheon Saturday, intending to bring them up to date on the development of gasoline and the dumping of Mexican vegetables but wound up briefing them on the attempted rescue of the American hostages in Iran.

"I support the concept of the rescue," Stone told the local farmers, "and if I'd been asked before the operation, I probably would have gone along with it, but I reserve the right to judge the planning and execution."

Stone said he had been in Tallahassee Thursday night and Friday morning. He said he had learned of the attempt only shortly before White House Press Secretary Jody Powell released the news to the national media and spent several hours on the telephone being briefed by presidential aides.

As a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Stone said he expected a full briefing in Washington this week but there were ready to discuss Saturday.

Of the attempt itself, he said the special task force of elite military personnel obviously needed more backup helicopters or some other way of delivering the helicopters into Iran to stage the strike.

"This is one of the things we'll be going into in closed sessions next week," he said, adding he didn't know when the findings of those meetings would be disclosed.

Stone said there are several opinions the American government can take now, including a naval blockade, mining Iranian waters and another rescue attempt.

"As of yesterday (Friday), he said, "they had not moved the hostages. They may move them and they may just say they've moved them. I think it will be a plus if they move the hostages into a hospital under government care."

Stone said he had been informed that President Carter had finally decided to attempt the rescue because of the rising turmoil in Iran, including the riots on college campuses, unrest in Iraq and the inability of the Bani Sadr regime to get the hostages transferred out from under the hands of the militants.

He said the risks to the hostages had risen to the point, Carter thought, it worthwhile to make the attempt.

Whatever the next American move might be, Stone said, it should be done without making threats about it. "I think we should act or shut up. I would much rather have a peaceful resolution but this should give the Iranians notice our patience isn't limitless and it's beginning to wear thin."

Concerning the sketchiness of the first stories dealing with the rescue attempt, Stone said he believed fairly complete details will be released in the near future because he had been told detailed plans of the mission had been left behind in the helicopters, which were later strafed by Iranian aircraft, killing four Iranian guards.

Asked if he would comment on the impact the failed rescue attempt would have on American politics, Stone said he wouldn't comment on that for the next few days.

"This is a time when unity is important," he said, "and if Ronald Reagan and George Bush can stand behind the President, as a Democrat, I believe I do at least that much."

On another subject, Stone said he believes there is a definite future in the Glades area in the production of gasoline, noting there are already plans for United States Sugar Corporation to build an alcohol plant and preliminary plans are afoot to build an ethanol plant in the Belle Glade area.

"There's a good future in this area," he said, "using sugar cane in season and sweet sorghum out of season. Florida has an excellent market too since there is a shortage of gasoline here."

The state's junior senator also commented on the decision by the U.S. Department of Commerce that Mexico isn't dumping vegetables onto the American market, saying, "It had better not be final because it's wrong."

"I'm in hopes," he said, "that the Customs court will reverse the dumping decision."

Senator Stone said there are two definitions which have traditionally been used to determine when goods are being dumped; the first when they're being sold for less here than they are at home and the second when they're being sold for less than the cost of production.

He said the Mexican vegetables are being dumped under both these definitions so the Department of Commerce drew up a new definition: that if the goods were being sold for the same price in Canada as in the United States, then it isn't dumping.

"They're also investigating whether the Japanese are dumping steel," he said. "That's going on right now. I wonder what their reaction would be if the Japanese said, 'Hey, fellows, we're selling for the same price in Canada so we're not dumping.'"

"It's like saying if you dump twice, it's not as bad as dumping once," Stone said but some other congressmen have been trying to persuade President Carter of their point of view, "but it's hard. He's listening but he's not doing anything about it."

Senator Stone is up for re-election in November but he said he hasn't declared yet, although he said his plans are coming along well and he will be declaring in the near future.

Asked where he expects to find his toughest opposition in the upcoming campaign, he answered shortly, "My wife."

MMMM — Good!
 Have you ever been completely overpowered by the fabulous sffells as you walk through a restaurant's doors? Well, just open the door to Subs & Suda's at 1628 N.E. Ave. L and you will be taken by the numerous good aromas drifting around the restaurant.
 At Subs & Suda's the variety of food offered is terrific. Everything is homemade except the ice cream. All the yummy desserts are made on the premises, fresh daily. The owners of Subs & Suda's, Troy Martin and his wife Randy, and Harold Peacock try to offer a family style restaurant atmosphere with something for everyone, and they succeed very nicely.
 A few of the goodies on the menu are sandwiches like postami, subs and rubens, fruit salads, one of the best pizzas around and ice cream in seven flavors that may change from week to week for variety.
 Even the milkshakes are made up fresh with hard ice cream and fresh milk. And a 3-flavor Banana Split that uses three toppings, whipped cream and a cherry. Sounds out of this world doesn't it? Give it a try.
 This is one restaurant that doesn't try to cut corners on anything. They want to give you your money's worth so they don't sacrifice quality by trying to be a fast food restaurant. They take their time to make sure you are pleased with your order.
 A special touch for the subs is the fresh bread delivered daily from West Palm Beach where it is baked just the night before.
 It is this special quality and caring about the customer that makes Subs & Suda's a great place to dine. The atmosphere is relaxed and the service friendly.
Shirley Grooms, Doris Smith, John Henderson and Beverly Green are your hostesses and will see you are served some of the best goodies around.
 There is also a Subs & Suda's in Pahokee. Both are open Monday thru Saturday from 10:30 to 9:00. Call in and pick up your order at the convenient pick up window. Or pack the family in the car and head out to Subs & Suda's for dinner tonight — you'll like it!
 For your next party you will not order on 8 ft. party subs? Subs & Suda's will make one up for you to save you time on party plans.

would be a benefit to the entire Glades area." Commissioner Altman asked Dr. Conley if the college intends to staff the auditorium and Dr. Conley replied he did. Mrs. Hand then said the auditorium manager may be a volunteer's job and someone had already been approached.

Commissioner Walker also wanted to know if there would be a fee for the city should the city want to use the facility. Dr. Conley said he couldn't provide a definite answer, that he would have to abide by college policy but that he hoped to form an advisory committee to deal with fees and that in no case would the college be making a profit when the auditorium was being used by a community organization or the city.

In other business, the commission:

Approved a new four-year contract with Environmental Aviation Services, Inc. (formerly Ag-Air, Inc.) to provide aerial mosquito spraying for the city. Company owner Howard Barker said he would prefer to sign a multi-year contract but didn't want to get into a trap on escalating prices and the commission agreed to pay the second, third and fourth years of the contract to the Consumer Price Index.

The city had offered four possible contracts, the first for one year and the other three covering two, three or four years. The cost to the city was increased by Barker from 22 cents per acre for the usual 35 applications to 40 cents per acre and the prices were consistent in all four contracts Barker returned to the commission. He was the only bidder.

Barker and City Manager Robert Sanders noted that Barker had begun using an additive in the spray chemicals last year that saved the city a total of $17,000 in chemical costs without affecting the quality.

Approved a summer softball league with a men's division and a women's division, that will be playing games at the Airport and Lake Shore Parks. There will be tentatively ten men's teams and eight women's teams playing a total of 192 games between June 9 and Aug. 21.

The teams would pay fees of $250 each to pay for the expense of running the league.

"We're not trying to detract from the Jaycee league here or the Pahokee Softball League," Sanders said, "but we've been talking for years about this and it's kind of exciting that we're going to be able to hold it this summer."

Approved a request the Glades Central High School Band Parents to use Lake Shore Park on May 17 for a school fair and the Lake Shore Civic Center that night for a dance.

The proceeds from the fair and the dance would be used to purchase new band uniforms.

Named Wednesday, May 28 as a day of alternate transportation in the city. Sanders explained that a city of similar size to Belle Glade recently did this and 2,000 people became involved. "In one day," he said, "over 10,000 driving miles were avoided."

Sanders said this could be instituted as part of the city's energy conservation program and. "On the designated day, participants would use alternate forms of transportation such as bicycles, walking, roller-skates, skateboards, horses, pogo sticks or even car pooling to commute to work, shopping and so forth."

The various civic clubs," he said, "could be approached to assist in encouraging participating."

Proclaimed Saturday as a "Sun Day" to promote the use of solar energy.

March of Dimes poster child due here

BELLE GLADE — Palm Beach County March of Dimes Poster Child Erin Albertson will accompany County Director Judy Walker Thursday and Friday when she visits local schools to inform them about the Eighth Annual Glades Superwalk on May 10.

Glades March of Dimes coordinator Roy Rausch said Ms. Walker and Erin will also be on hand for the Superwalk itself when Glades walkers step off on a 10.6 mile walk for charity.

The walkers will be soliciting pledges from sponsors over the next ten days. The sponsors will pledge to donate so much per mile and the walkers can get as many sponsors as possible to sign the pledge sheets.

The proceeds will go toward research and treatment of birth defects. More than $4,000 was recently donated, for instance to Glades General Hospital and Everglades Memorial Hospital. Other funds go toward the operation of the Palm Beach County clinic operated by the March of Dimes and toward national research. The Glades Superwalk is being sponsored by the Belle Glade Lions Club this year and Rausch said he is attempting to produce challenges between teams of walkers who would be representing various city merchants.

"We even challenged Judge Don T. Adams to walk against Lion President Charles Ward when Judge Adams spoke to the Lions last week," Rausch said. He didn't say whether Judge Adams accepted the challenge but did comment that Ward wasn't present for the meeting.

"This will be one of the smoothest Superwalks ever held out here," Rausch went on. "I'm very pleased with the way everybody's been handling their job. All the chairmen of the various committees have been doing what they're supposed to do."

He said everything is set for the walkers to begin their march.

ARC to go over the top?

BELLE GLADE—A special effort to put the Glades Association for Retarded Citizens (ARC) over the top of a $40,000 building fund campaign was launched this week, with letters asking for contributions going out to many Glades residents.

ARC Director Tricia Blash said there is less than $4,000 to go before the local charity has enough to acquire the St. Peters Lutheran Church building on West Canal Street North.

The buildings will be used as a headquarters for the ARC and will offer expanded space to serve the mentally handicapped of the community.

"Many concerned citizens and businesses have made their contributions the letter reads. "Your contribution will:

1. Be appreciated.

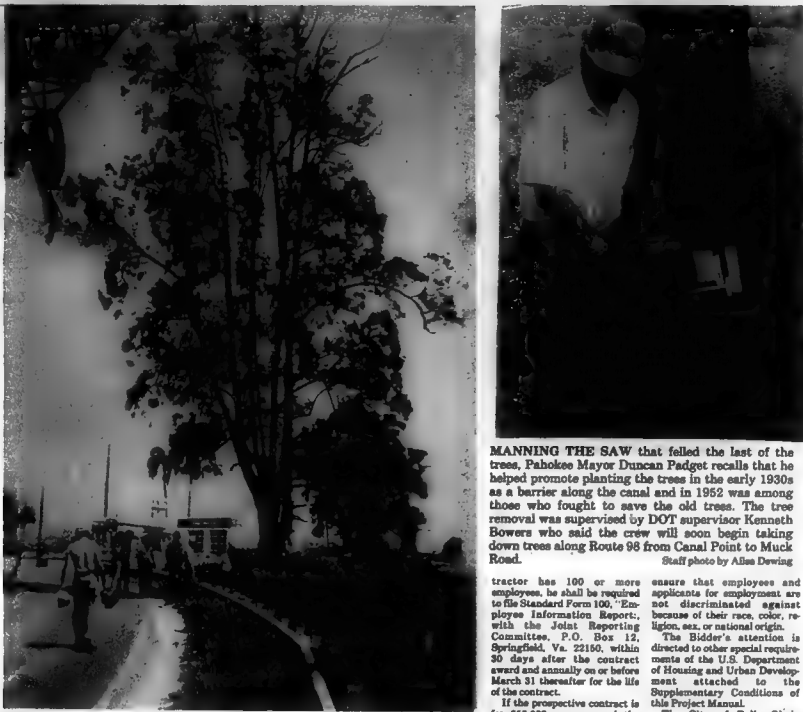

2. Provide services for people who cannot help themselves at this time in their lives.

3. Help train and educate some people to the extent that they can eventually take a job and help themselves.

4. Give you the knowledge and inner satisfaction that you genuinely helped others who were not as fortunate as you.

Your contribution is needed. "The letter winds up, "will you please join in this final drive to GO OVER THE TOP?"

TREE NUMBER 1,548, the last of the 50-year-old Brazilian oaks that lined the canal side of Route 441 leading into Pahokee, fell to earth Friday, taken down by the Florida Department of Transportation and the county in the interests of safety. Resembling Australian pine trees, but at one time considered to be harder, the oaks have menaced traffic for the last several years, dropping dead limbs onto the highway, and causing at least one fatality.

NEWSPAPER READERSHIP REMAINS HIGH, BUT... A Florida Press Association newspaper readership survey shows that 8 out of 10 Floridians regularly read a daily newspaper. And that for local news, papers outdraw television and radio, 54.5% to about 40%.

A WORKING NEW HALL GAMES It's interesting to note that in today's environment, Washington often rewards failure (like Chrysler) and penalizes winners. A prominent American summarized, "Success is now sufficient evidence to invite scrutiny by the government to determine how success can be 'remedied,' as if it were a disease. To win is to lose, and the losers are not just the companies found 'guilty of success. The real losers are the consumers."

ENERGY-RICH VS. ENERGY-POOR The nation is at the crossroads in choosing a future that will be either energy-rich or energy-poor. The energy-poor path leads to more mental jobs, less buying power, lower quality of living, less upward social mobility, inadequate resources for essential services, environmental protection and national defense.

The energy-rich path offers better working environment, more opportunity, greater productivity, greater buying power, more opportunity for more people, greater national strength and unity.

FPL's Board Chairman, Marshall McDonald "I firmly believe we will choose the energy-rich path. I worry that we may not make this choice in time. Decisions relating to the nation's energy future are being made now. You can make your voice heard!"

Would Christopher Columbus have started out from Spain if the bureaucratic red tape had him entrained? Capt. Columbus borrowed the money from Queen Isabella and headed west, hoping to find the east. No permits. No public hearings. By contrast, some 84 different permits were required just to build and start-up Turkey Point nuclear generating plant. Just something to think about.

BELLE GLADE—The Glades Central girls track team ruled the District 14AAA meet during the district meet they hosted Friday, piling up 66 per cent of all the points available to four teams, three times the score of the next best team, and setting five school and district records.

Coch Jay Seider said the Lady Raiders earned a total 165 points, followed by Cardinal Newman in second place with 53 points, North Shore with 27 points and Atlantic with six.

Sheila Ashley and Sheila Nix set records for the second consecutive week in the long jump and shot put and both are the best distances for this year in statewide Class AAA competition.

Sheila Ashley jumped 18'8 1/2" and Sheila Nix put the eight pound shot 41'1 1/4". In the medalline, Gloria Stewart set a district discus record with a hurl of 119'10", also the best in the state this year.

Raiders blow away district competition

BELLE GLADE—The Glades Central boys track team took first place in all but one event Friday in the District 14AAA track meet and the sole exception, the mile relay, was almost won after one of the runners dropped the baton and gave up a 75-yard haul.

The Raiders won 153 points and the District championship, leaving second place North Shore with 45 points, third place Cardinal Newman with 43 points, and fourth place Atlantic with 15 points, far behind.

The mile relay finish brought the sparse crowd to its feet and sent other tracksters runners on the last leg as Adam Ford gradually closed the gap and caught up with the North Shore runner, only to lose when the Mustang pot forth a final sprint in the home stretch that Ford, winded by running a catch-up race, couldn't match.

That race was the only time during the meet when Glades Central was given any real competition, coming when Monroe, on the first 220 yard leg, had the baton jolted from his grip. Monroe said later he lost heart at that time and, turning around, literally walked back to pick up the baton.

"He thought he'd been disqualified," Coach Willie McDonald said, "and it wasn't until Ray (McDonald's son, the next runner in the event) and several others started yelling to him to get the baton that he finally got it and started running again."

McDonald picked up some of the lost lead but the largest gain was made during the 440 yards run by Theodis Paulk, who ran his quarter-mile split in 50.4 seconds and handed off the baton to Ford with about 15 yards to pick up during the last 880 yards.

Ford gained slowly but steadily and forged into second place with about 100 yards to go. The Raiders finished in second place with a total time of 3:46.

The biggest surprise of the evening, and Coach McDonald had promised, came in the 100 yard dash. Jessie Hester entered the event for the first time. Hester won the sprint with a time of 9.5 seconds.

Raymondo McDonald and Arthur Monroe tied for fourth place with a time of 10.3 seconds.

In the 120 yard high hurdles, Eddie Lusane was first place with a time of 14.6 seconds, followed by Joseph McCanta in second place with 15.7 seconds and Jeff Woodson in third place with a time of 16.1 seconds.

In the 300 yard hurdles, Jeffrey Woodson was first place with a time of 40.6 seconds, followed by Eddie Lusane in second place at 41.8 seconds and Joseph McCanta in third place at 42.1 seconds.

In the 220 yard dash, Jessie Hester won first place with a time of 22.3 seconds, followed by Elmorris Dukes in second place at 23.1 seconds and Lloyd Messan in fifth place at 24.0 seconds.

In the discus, the Raiders swept first through fourth places, with Charles Miller hurling the disc 151'7". Wilford Morgan taking second place with a distance of 141'6", Greg Bain taking third with a throw of 131'10"7", and Milton Smith taking fourth with a throw of 127'9".

In the shot put, Charles Miller also won first place with a heave of 53'11", followed by Wilford Morgan in third place with a 47'8" effort and Arthur Thomas in fifth place with a throw of 46'3"4".

Morgan won the other two field events, leaping 21'3"4" in the long jump and 6'4" in the high jump. He was followed in the long jump by Eugene Wells in fourth place with a 5'8" effort and in the long jump by Wells in third place with a distance of 21'4"4".

In the 800 yard run, Emanuel Thornton won first place with a time of 2:04, followed by Keith Seymour in second at 2:05 and Lorenzo Green with 2:08.

Leville Moreland won both the mile and two mile runs, finishing the mile run in 4:43 and the two mile run in 10:31. In the two mile run, Moreland lapped one runner and finished 100 yards ahead of the number two man. He was followed in both races by Frankie McDonald in fifth place with a time of 4:57 in the mile and 10:46 in the two mile event.

The Raiders won the 440 yard dash when Dennis Bradley came in first with a time of 50.4 seconds, followed by Theodis Paulk in second with a time of 51.3 seconds and Demetrius Singletary in fifth place with a time of 52.4 seconds.

The 440 yard relay was won by the team of Arthur Monroe, Raymondo McDonald, Elmorris Dukes and Jessie Hester in a time of 43.2 seconds.

The mile relay was won by the team of Robert Brown, Greg Bain, Dennis Bradley and Demetrius Singletary in 3:30.

Coach McDonald said each of the athletes scoring in first, second, third or fourth place will be eligible to compete in the regional meet Friday at North Shore High School.

Glades Day girl netters make good seas on

BELLE GLADE—In a year when she lost her first two players, Rita Schoenfeld expected her Glades Day School girls tennis team to be in a building year but after dropping the first match of the season to John Carroll, they went all the way to the district playoffs before losing again.

The girls, who wound up with a 13-1 regular season record, wound up in fourth place at district, only three points behind the winning team. During the past three years, Miss Schoenfeld has led the girls at Glades Day to a combined record of 40 wins and two losses, including 14-1 season in 1978, a 13-0 season last year and this year's 13-1 record.

"After losing their number one girl to graduation and number two girl not joining the team," Miss Schoenfeld said, "they knew they had to work hard to keep up with their winning ways. Most of the girls went to tennis camps over the summer to improve their tennis ability and skills."

She said Felissa Orduna, the number five girl from last year, worked hard and became the team's number one player this year. She compiled a 12-2 record, losing only twice to the number one girl from John Carroll. A sophomore, Felissa had two more years on the squad. Monica Hooker is the only senior on the squad and she went from number three last year to number two this year, compiling an 11-3 record.

Cheryl Hooker, the number three girl, came from number four last year, compiling a 18-0 record this year. "Not only was Cheryl undefeated this year," Miss Schoenfeld said, "But she was also undefeated last year. Cheryl is a sophomore."

Deirdre Orduna was the number eight player last year but this year, she played number four. She is in the eighth grade and has another four years to play. She compiled and 11-3 season this year.

Debbie Dulaney didn't try out for the team last year but this year Miss Schoenfeld said she worked hard and became the number five player. She compiled a 9-7 record, "very good for a first year player."

Claire Pope, the number six player this year, only got to play a few matches. She was used mostly in doubles. She is a sophomore.

Felissa and Deirdre Orduna make up the number one doubles team, compiled a 4-6 record. Miss Schoenfeld said Felissa also teamed up with Claire to play a few matches at the number one spot and Deirdre teamed up with Debbie Dulaney to play a few matches at number two doubles.

Monica and Cheryl Hooker compiled an 11-1 record in number two doubles play. They also won at the number two doubles position at district this year.

Their only loss, to the Okeechobee doubles team, was later avenged with an 8-1 win. Their record is 21-1 in the last two seasons.

TEETH CLENCHED with the effort, Glades Central trackster Eddie Lusane was far in the lead near the end of the 120 yard high hurdles. The Raiders swept the hurdles, one, two, three in the District 14AAA track meet Friday and took first place in 14 of the 16 events. Photo by Dean Jones

BELLE GLADE—The Glades Central boys track team took first place in all but one event Friday in the District 14AAA track meet and the sole exception, the mile medley relay, was almost won after one of the runners dropped the baton and gave up a 75-yard lead.

The Raiders won 158 points and the District championship, leaving second place North Shore, with 46 points, third place Cardinal Newman, with 43 points, and fourth place Atlantic, with 15 points, far behind.

The mile medley finish brought the sparse crowd to its feet and sent other spectators in the infield chasing the runners on the last leg as Adam Ford gradually closed the gap and caught up with the North Shore runner, only to lose when the Mustang put forth a final sprint in the home stretch that Ford, winded by running a catch-up race, couldn't match.

That race was the only time during the meet when Glades Central was given any real competition, coming when Monroe, on the first 229 yard leg, had the baton jostled from his grip. Monroe said later he lost heart at that time and, turning around, literally walked back to pick up the baton.

"He thought he'd been disqualified," Coach Willie McDonald said, "and it wasn't until Ray (McDonald's son, the next runner in the event) and several others started yelling to him to get the baton that he finally got it and started running again."

McDonald picked up some of the lost lead but the largest gain was made during the 440 yards run by Theodis Paulk, who ran his quarter-mile sprint

in 50.4 seconds and handed off the baton to Ford with about 15 yards to pick up during the last 80 yards.

Ford gained slowly but steadily and forged into second place with about 100 yards to go. The Raiders finished in second place with a total time of 3:46.

The biggest surprise of the evening, and Coach McDonald had promised one, came in the 100 yard dash. Jessie Hester entered the event for the first time. Hester won the sprint with a time of 9.6 seconds.

Raymond McDonald and Arthur Monroe tied for fourth place with a time of 10.3 seconds.

In the 120 yard high hurdles, Eddie Lusane won first place with a time of 14.6 seconds, followed by Joseph McCants in second place with 15.7 seconds and Jeff Woodson in third place with a time of 16.1 seconds.

In the 300 yard hurdles, Jeffrey Woodson won first place with a time of 40.6 seconds, followed by Eddie Lusane in second place at 41.8 seconds and Joseph McCants in third place at 42.1 seconds.

In the 220 yard dash, Jessie Hester won first place with a time of 22.3 seconds, followed by Elmorris Dukes in second place in 23.1 seconds and Lloyd Messan in fifth place in 24.0 seconds.

In the 400 yard dash, the Raiders swept first through fourth places, with Charles Miller huring the race 151.9", Wilford Morgan taking second place with a distance of 141.6", Greg Bain taking third with a throw of 131.10" and Milton Smith taking fourth with a throw of 127.3".

In the shot put, Charles Miller also won first place with a heave of 53'11", followed by Wilford Morgan in third place with a 47'8" effort, and Arthur Thomas in fifth place with a throw of 40'3".

Morgan won the other two field events, leaping 21'3/4" in the long jump and 6'4" in the high jump. He was followed in the long jump by Eugene Wells in fourth place with a 5'8" effort and in the long jump by Wells in third place at 21'3/4" and Demetrius Singletary in fifth place with a distance of 21'1/4".

In the 880 yard run, Emanuel Thornton won first place with a time of 2:04, followed by Keith Seymour in second at 2:05 and Lorenzo Green in third at 2:08.

Levell Moreland won both the mile and two mile runs, finishing the mile run in 4:43 and the two mile run in 10:31. In the two mile run, Moreland lapped one runner and finished 100 yards ahead of the number two man. He was followed in both races by Frankie McClouden in fifth place with a time of 4:57 in the mile and 10:46 in the two mile event.

The Raiders won the 400 yard dash when Dennis Bradley came in first with a time of 50.4 seconds, followed by Theodis Paulk in second with a time of 51.3 seconds and Demetrius Singletary in fifth place with a time of 52.4 seconds.

The 440 yard relay was won by the team of Arthur Monroe, Raymond McDonald, Elmorris Dukes and Jessie Hester in a time of 43.2 seconds.

The mile relay was won by the team of Robert Brown, Greg Bain, Dennis Bradley and Demetrius Singletary in 3:30.

Coach McDonald said each of the athletes scoring in first, second, third or fourth place will be eligible to compete in the regional meet Friday at North Shore High School.

Glades Day girl netters make good seas on

BELLE GLADE—In a year when she lost her first two players, Rita Schoenfeld expected her Glades Day School girls tennis team to be in a building year but after dropping the first match of the season to John Carroll, they went all the way to the district playoffs before losing again.

The girls, who wound up with a 15-1 regular season record, wound up in fourth place at district, only three points behind the winning team. During the past three years, Rita Schoenfeld has led the girls at Glades Day to a combined record of 40 wins and two losses, including 14-1 season in 1978, a 15-0 season last year and this year's 15-1 record.

"After losing their number one girl to graduation and number two girl not joining the team," Rita Schoenfeld said, "they knew they had to work hard to keep up with their winning ways. Most of the girls went to tennis camps over the summer to improve their tennis ability and skills."

She said Felissa Orduna, the number five girl from last year, worked hard and became the team's number one player this year. She compiled a 12-2 record, losing only twice to the number one girl from John Carroll. A sophomore, Felissa had more wins years on the squad. Monica Hooker is the only senior on the squad and she went from number three last year to number two this year, compiling an 11-3 record.

Cheryl Hooker, the number three girl, came from number four last year, compiling a 13-0 record this year. "Not only was Cheryl undefeated this year," Rita Schoenfeld said, "but she was also undefeated last year. Cheryl is a sophomore."

Deirdre Orduna was the number eight player last year but this year, she played number four. She is in the eighth grade and has another four years to play. She compiled an 11-3 season this year.

Debbie Dulaney didn't try out for the team last year but this year Rita Schoenfeld said she worked hard and became the number five player. She compiled a 7-1 record, "very good for a first year player."

Claire Pope, the number six player this year, only got to play a few matches. She was used mostly in doubles. She is a sophomore.

Felissa and Deirdre Orduna make up the number one doubles team, compiled a 4-6 record. Rita Schoenfeld said Felissa also teamed up with Claire to play a few matches at the number one spot and Deirdre teamed up with Debbie Dulaney to play a few matches at number two doubles.

Monica and Cheryl Hooker compiled an 11-1 record in number two doubles play. They also won the number two doubles position at district this year.

Their only loss, to the Okeechobee doubles team, was later avenged in a 3-1 win. Their record is 21-1 in the last two seasons.

TEETH CLENCHED with the effort, Glades Central trackster Eddie Lusane was far in the lead near the end of the 120 yard high hurdles. The Raiders swept the hurdles, one, two, three in the District 14AAA track meet Friday and took first place in 14 of the 15 events. Photo by Dean Jones

POTPOURRI will make your roses last forever

By AILSA DEWING

Old roses never die. They don't even fade away if they're preserved as potpourri.

Potpourri (pronounced poe-pur-ry) is the ancient art of drying aromatic flowers combined with spices and a fixative. The practice of making potpourri is so old that the word itself comes from the Latin "rotten pot" — hardly a description to commend it!

Nevertheless, potpourri is highly commendable and it's both simple and relatively inexpensive to make. And while many flowers — such as carnations, geranium, or violets — can be used, none surpasses the rose.

With the roses now at the height of blooming here, this is surely the time to preserve a little of their fragrance. Enjoy it yourself for years to come or make a gift of it in the form of a rose jar or sachet.

Experts say that roses to be used for potpourri should be picked on a clear day in the afternoon when they are full-blown but not yet drooping. Since only the petals will be used, cut them with the shortest of stems.

Dismember the flowers and spread the petals on screening or absorbent paper to dry out in a warm place but not in direct sunlight. The drying process can take as long as a week. Just stir them daily and wait for the crispness to set in.

Because the petals shrink in drying, you'll probably need to process several batches until you have accumulated "a quart" of petals. As each batch dries out, place it in a covered container, sprinkling each layer of petals with salt. Stir each day.

Recipes for making potpourri present an endless variety ranging from the addition of a few readily available spices to a long list of harder-to-find ingredients.

The simplest of recipes calls for orris root (which can be purchased at most pharmacies) and any combination of spices such as cinnamon, cloves, mace, nutmeg, and allspice.

Nancy Creech, incoming president of the Belle Glade Garden Study Club, displays potpourri made in an apothecary jar.

The dried rose petals are shown on a plate she hand-painted with a rose design, another of her many hobbies. Staff photo by Ailsa Dewing

FROM THE GRAPEVINE

By BRENDA BUNTING

Super Walk 80 will be kicking off soon in the Glades Area with children as well as many adults participating.

It is going to be held a few weeks later than usual, but for many, this means a few extra weeks to round up pledges for the walk.

Last year's walk-a-thon for the March of Dimes was an enjoyable event for everyone including myself. The weather turned out to be perfect and the route was easy to follow and away from the flow of traffic.

My sons decided they wanted to try to walk last year so I helped to round up the pledges for the walk, as well as promising to walk the route with them.

The Kiwanis Club of the Glades pledged Bobby a dollar a kilometer for the walk but added the kicker that if I walked the whole 20 kilometers they would donate another dollar per kilometer.

I was committed. Alma Henry had agreed to walk with me and at the last minute rounded up enough pledges to make the trip worthwhile.

I was very worried that my son Chris, then six, would be unable to finish the walk, so I admonished him to not overtire himself and to climb on the poop wagon if he became too tired.

The warning wasn't necessary. I found out later. Alma and I had only gone a few miles when Bobby, Chris and a few of their friends passed us coming back. Seems they had run, hopped and jogged the entire distance!

Alma and I found the going a little rougher. On the way back, I seemed to be developing a blister on my foot. I mentioned the fact to Alma who didn't give me much sympathy. She had blisters on her blisters at that point.

Pit stops became very frequent during the few remaining miles back and I had my doubts that Alma was going to be able to finish, be she was determined to make a go of it.

We laughed and hobbled the last few blocks to the finish line and swore we weren't going to do this again next year.

The following Monday morning when I got to work I just had to tease Alma by saying you can sure tell the country girls from the city girls. I immediately regretted having said anything when I found out she had spent the entire weekend in bed, only getting up for necessities.

Never-the-less, I plan to talk her into walking with me again this year to help a good cause and just for the fun of it.

According to Roy Rauch, the coordinator for the walk-a-thon, Ms. Judy Walker will be distributing pledge cards to the schools on Thursday and Friday of this week and cards can also be picked up at the Labor Force office in Belle Glade.

Hope to see you there, May 10 at 8 p.m. behind the Glades Central Annex. Registration starts at 7 a.m.

Flowers are blooming for the Red Cross Ball as committee members Ann McMillan, Norma Mills and Mercy Langdale create paper blossoms to decorate the Elks Club for the May 3 dance. Calhoun and His Band will provide music from 9-1. Tickets are $10 each and may be purchased from Sandy Maynor, Angela Puig, and Linda Moss. Proceeds will go toward purchasing equipment used in Red Cross cardiovascular training programs in the Glades area. Staff photo by Ailsa Dewing

OES marks 50th anniversary

PAHOKEE-Forty out-of-town guests were present to help Pahokee Chapter 184, Order of Eastern Star, celebrate its 50th anniversary Friday night at the Masonic Hall.

Among the honor guests were three charter members: Madge Taylor, who served as acting worthy matron when the chapter was organized; Ann Geiger, a past worthy matron of the chapter; and Vena Mae Schroder.

A highlight of the celebration was the awarding of 50-year-pins and life memberships to Mrs. Schroder and Mrs. Geiger.

The program was presented by Louise Rogers and Inez Reeves who conducted a humorous dialog relating incidents that occurred during the chapter's 50 years.

In addition to the charter members attending, invitations were also sent to five other original members who no longer reside in Pahokee and were unable to attend. They include three past matrons, Evelyn Smith and Edna Barrett, both of West Palm Beach, and Lois Gossely, Gainesville, also, Florida.

Spencer of Starke, a past grand, Ada, and Juanita McArthur, whose address the chapter was unable to locate.

Lately a lot of people have been noticing that some of their house plants or outdoor plants are showing increasing signs of the foliage getting a stippled or bleached-out appearance. In some cases the affected foliage may short and leave the plant very sparsely foliated and leggy.

If you check these leaves carefully and if your eyes are good enough you will be able to find the cause of the problem — spider mites. These tiny pests are related to fleas and ticks and have eight legs instead of six like true insects.

These minute pests can be found throughout the year but are most noticeable during the late winter and spring when we have our dry season. Mites are so tiny that many people cannot distinguish them without the aid of some type of magnification and since they are so small and light wind currents easily carry them from an infested area to a new area.

Control of mites is also somewhat difficult because of their rapid reproduction. Under favorable conditions mites can go from egg to mature adult in seven to eight days.

Some of the more popular methods of combating mites but the important thing is that more than one application of the miticide be applied in order to make sure the mites have been controlled. Most miticides do not kill eggs and this means a follow-up spray within seven days is necessary to kill any newly hatched young before they can grow up and reproduce.

Some of the more popular miticides that are readily available include Kelthane, Jostox, Cygon, Orthene, oil sprays and various other products. Make sure when using these products that they are not injurious to the type of plant you are using them on. Check label directions carefully before using the product and then use it strictly according to label directions; otherwise, you may not achieve complete control.

Make sure if mites are located on house plants that these are isolated from others in the room so they may be spread from one plant to all the others. Also, if you are purchasing new plants inspect them before bringing them into the house so that you do not bring problems indoors and spread them to your other plants.

I really haven't got the time to write a column this week, because I'm on a diet.

And everybody knows that people on diets can't do much of anything except think about food. Talk about food. Dream about food. Anything about food. Except eat it.

In toto, dieters are bored on the subject. And I'm even more because this is my first attempt at starvation. (On the other hand, would you rather I talked about my grandchildren?)

I grew up as a skinny kid. When other girls were "filling out" I substituted with protruding bones. Then a funny thing happened to me on the way to social security. Along with saving my money for my old age, I began hoarding calories. My mattress should bulge like my waistline.

All my life I seem to have been surrounded by dieters without getting involved myself. I considered it a spectator sport. "Let nature take its course," was my motto. Only to learn that if you give nature a foot it doesn't take a yard, but give it any other part of you and it will add a yard and go for a first down.

Whenever friends at the office went on a diet there was one thing that baffled me. Instead of bringing their lunch in a small brown bag as they once did, they'd begin arriving at work with a bag labeled, "Extra Heavy. No double bagging needed."

Now I know why. Once you stop taking a sandwich for lunch your tote bag runneth over with bowls of salad, fresh fruit, raw vegetables and quarts of fat-free liquids.

I have to get up an hour earlier to fix a lunch that used to take two minutes' to put together. I jog around the kitchen so much now that I count it toward my daily exercise time.

There are so many recommended diets around these days that before you can stop eating you have to decide what you're eating you're going to stop.

Weightwatchers probably takes the cake (whatever made me say that?) as the gourmet diet. One look at their recipes told me I'd spend more time cooking things I didn't like than I did cooking what I do like. As a catered diet it must be great.

Anyway, I've opted for the "almost anything goes as long as you don't like it diet." If it doesn't have sugar and butter in it I probably don't like it and it's good for me so it must be alright to eat. Which I won't. And isn't that the reason for a diet in the first place?

And it has this to recommend it: the choice of food is so yukky that it's a pleasure not to have to eat much of it.

Meanwhile there's the in-between times when I can think about food. Talk about food. Dream about it. It's only at mealtimes I suffer.

Cystic Fibrosis Bike-a-thon May 10

BELLE GLADE: "Our goals are simple: To find a cure or control for the inherited disease cystic fibrosis, while improving diagnosis and treatment for persons suffering from the serious lung damaging disease," said Mrs. W.M. Adams, chairman of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation's Bike-a-thon in the Glades.

"In Florida we have dedicated volunteers, local organizations participation, renowned scientists and researchers, and major treatment centers from the panhandle to the keys," Mrs. Adams added.

"What we don't have is enough money, that is why the Florida Chapter of Cystic Fibrosis Foundation is appealing for support to expand research and care programs through the Breath of Life Bike-a-thon," said Adams.

On May 10, local volunteers in the Belle Glade, Pahokee, and South Bay communities will participate in the local bike-a-thon.

The bikers from Belle Glade will leave at 8 a.m. and make a trip to Pahokee and back.

The Pahokee bike riders will begin their journey at the Loula V. York Public Library.

Mrs. Adams said Mrs. Margaret S. Edwards is serving as co-chairman of the Pahokee area. Persons wishing to participate in the bike-a-thon may contact Mrs. Edwards, at 924-5701.

Persons living in Belle Glade wishing to participate in the bike-a-thon are encouraged to contact Mrs. Adams for additional information.

Also registrations will be held the day of the bike-a-thon.

Next year Immunization for HS students

TALLAHASSEE: Faced with continuing disease outbreaks among high school and college age youths throughout the state, Florida health officials have said that students entering high school next year will be required to furnish proof of immunization against six diseases.

Currently only kindergarten first graders, and other first time Florida students are required to certify immunity to measles, mumps, rubella, tetanus, diphtheria and polio. Starting next fall, all students entering high school will be required to furnish proof of the immunizations.

Officials said copies of the new guidelines are being sent to schools, county health departments, and private physicians.

The change was made because of continuing disease outbreaks among high school and college age youths throughout the state, according to Dr. James Howell, State Health Officer and Health Program Office Director for the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services (HRS).

He said measles (rubeola), a highly contagious rash disease, is the most worrisome because a large percentage of high school students are still susceptible to it.

Rubella, also known as German measles or three-day measles, may also be a threat to female students now child bearing age and others such as susceptible female teachers should they be exposed to the disease during early pregnancy.

Rubella virus attacks the unborn fetus and often causes miscarriages and birth defects, Howell explained.

Mumps can have devastating complications for teenagers and young adults—sometimes causing deafness, encephalitis, or sterility, Howell stated.

Last year Florida counties reported over 900 cases of measles, 310 cases of rubella and 195 cases of mumps.

Three other vaccine-preventable diseases, polio, tetanus and diphtheria are rare but still pose a threat to susceptible persons, Howell

Since 1971 when the compulsory school immunization law was first implemented the immunization rate for first time entrants in grades K-1 has risen from about 50% to 93.7% this school year.

"Education and health officials have done a good job of enforcement and we now have a well immunized school population in kindergarten through eighth grade," Howell said. "We plan to do the same job for our upper grades."

Fifth graders Cheryl Miller, Gary Pace, and Thomas Tai were recognized for the third consecutive grading period.

Battered wives shelter efforts underway

Battered wives' who need help and shelter may call 996-0877

BELLE GLADE: In an attempt to disseminate more information about the physical and mental effects of battered wives, and to help the Glades area establish a center for battered wives, the Palm Beach County Domestic Assault Program, directed by Velma Troy of West Palm Beach, held the third public awareness meeting at the Palm Beach Junior College Glades Center last Thursday.

Ma. Troy who hopes to drum up community support for the idea in the Glades, said present by the task force is meeting once a month in the Glades with interested persons.

She said the group first two meetings were held at Bryant Auditorium at the Glades Office Building on Wednesday at noon. But to involve more persons who worked and wanted to attend the meetings changed the April meeting to a Thursday meeting at the P.B.C. Glades campus.

At last Thursday's meeting, Mrs. Troy presented a brief history on the establishment of the Palm Beach County Domestic Assault Program set up last year.

Since the inception, Mrs. Troy said the program has averaged 75 calls for help a month, and can now provide shelter, temporary funding, legal help and avenue of escape to a new life for women fed up with being physically abused.

Mrs. Troy said women living in the Glades are eligible for the services offered on the coast, but the facilities are so far and have provided little in the way of aid and comfort to Glades area women.

"When we do get a call from a woman in the Glades, there is the problem of transportation and she probably has no money and no means of getting to West Palm Beach."

Many Glades women placed in the West Palm Beach shelter soon return home, where they can be with friends and family, Mrs. Troy said. Women find it difficult to adjust to the strangeness of the city and the loneliness of being away from home and so efforts are being made to bring the program to the Glades, she added.

For the program to become a reality, Mrs. Troy said the community must support the program, and the local law enforcement agencies.

Mrs. Mary Kay Murray, director of the shelter for battered women, operated by the YWCA

"We found ourselves with private donors, local churches, and others providing items and furniture, and the YWCA donating office space, the setting up of the shelter was somewhat of an easier task in Palm Beach County than most other cities in Florida with shelters for battered wives," Murray added.

Locally Mrs. Troy said until the Glades can start a shelter, and whenever possible is available, the Crisis Stabilization Unit has consented shelter.

Battered women in need of service may call 996-0877 for assistance.

Mrs. Troy said the next public meeting is scheduled at 12 noon at Bryant Auditorium at the Glades Office Building on Wednesday, May 21, in West Palm Beach told the group how a group of volunteers worked for approximately a year before the first one bedroom apartment for battered wives opened in WPB.

Mrs. Murray said, the shelter now consists of four apartments.

Mrs. Troy said interested persons, and law enforcement agencies are welcomed to attend.

"We would like to see a local group organized with a chairman named at the next meeting," Troy said.

"We were accepted by the YWCA immediately, and because of the YWCA reputation in the community, the community accepted the community's ideas with limited reservations," Murray said.

A BIGGER WORLD

There comes a time, even in a chick's life, when the way must open to a greatly expanded world. When his confining shell no longer allows proper growth, he makes a point of throwing off his shackles and steps out into a big, strange world.

This comparatively simple phenomenon is paralleled in human existence as each child grows toward adulthood, and reaches out for the wider horizon. What he finds there will depend in great part on what he has been taught.

For this reason the early and continued guidance of Christian home and church are all-important. From these things the foundation of faith is built. Through faith and understanding the shackles of fear and bondage are dispelled, and your child grows spiritually strong to meet the ever-widening horizons and challenges of a modern world.

This page is sponsored by these Community minded businesses who remind you to attend the church of your choice.
